General Information:

In 1932 the Standard motorcycle factory starts to develop their own OHC engine. In 1933 they offered the Standard Rex together with the OHC engine. This engine looks like the usual english engines from that time. But Standard has done a good construction work which looks well and that is important. the technic was also very good. We offer this 250 ccm racer which was used in the last years at differant racing event. The engine number: 257XX
