General Information:

In the late 1960s, Yoshirou Harada led the development team responsible for building the Honda CB 750 Four. For decades, the Honda CB 750 Four has been one of the icons of motorcycling history and can certainly be regarded today as a cultural artefact. We have a very fine example on offer here. It has been extensively restored and has been ridden regularly since then on short journeys. We have added this beautiful Honda to our range following the closure of a museum.
