General Information:

Harley-Davidson fitted models with the so-called Panhead engine until 1965. That is why the first Electra Glide was only available with a Panhead engine for one year. At the same time, the models were fitted with a 12-volt system. Our Panhead was brought to Germany in 1996 and has been the centrepiece of a small museum ever since. The restoration work was carried out several years ago, yet the Electra Glide has been kept in excellent condition. The Belly numbers match.
