General Information:

Americans Chris Garvielle and Jim Cotherman from the United States had a significant influence on the design. The purchase price in 1976 was just over 4 million lire. At that time, it was the Japanese manufacturers who were simply cheaper and, in some cases, even faster. As a result, only around 540 America models were built between 1976 and 1978. Our America is in first-class condition, both mechanically and visually. Added to this is its originality, with matching numbers, which gives this America top marks in terms of collectability. We have a complete set of photographs documenting the entire restoration process. We have included some of these photographs with our quotation.
